GLENDALE W. C. T. U.

PLEASANT FUNCTION AT THE HOME OF MRS. C. O. PULLIAM

Friday afternoon, June 30, the ladies of the Glendale City W. C. T. U. and friends were delightfully entertained in the spacious home of Mrs. C. O. Pulliam, 148 S. Kenwood street, which was artistically decorated with beautiful flowers. To set aside the usual routine of business and enter into the spirit of the varied and pleasing program, seemed to be the chief object of this active body of women. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, after which a number of rousing new Campaign songs for "California Dry" were enthusiastically sung by old and young.

The devotional service was led by Mrs. Mottern of the Lutheran church, who selected for her Scripture lesson Second Kings, 6th chapter, and gave a helpful comment. A number of fervent prayers were offered.

Mrs. O. S. Palmer, social superintendent, had the program in charge, and was gratified in having secured such excellent talent. Those who assisted on this pleasant occasion were: Miss Elizabeth Mottern, who sang in her rich contralto voice a number of musical selections, playing her own accompaniments. Miss Leone Brice favored the company with a pathetic reading, vividly picturing the home blighted through drink. Miss Mary Frank and Miss Helen Strickland sang very sweetly a beautiful Gospel song. Miss Helen Ingledue caused much merriment by giving humorous readings. Miss Myrtle Pulliam delighted her hearers with a beautiful contralto solo, with piano accompaniment by her mother, and graciously responded to an encore. Little Miss Rattray, who has a clear high soprano voice, charmed the company by singing several songs.

During a brief recess delicious fruitade was served, and after being refreshed, the program was resumed and the president, who was requested to give a report of the great Southern California State W. C. T. U. convention, held in San Diego from June 12 to 16, kindly consented.

Mrs. Smart gave an interesting account of the last day's session, reserving the larger report for Mrs. L. E. Brown, who was delegate-at-large to the convention. This report is to be given at the next meeting, July 7, at Mrs. T. A. Wright's residence on south Louise street.

Especially interesting was the awarding of prizes to the contestants in the "foot race," the novel container in which to raise money for campaign purposes. Orange county carried off the first prize, a large silk American flag, while Glendale City Union came in for her share, receiving a flag of smaller dimensions. When bringing back the trophy, the president thought to bring another to match and kindly presented it to the Union.

Among the many good things she was privileged to hear was the address by Mary Harris Armor of Georgia, who is a brilliant and forceful speaker. She is sometimes called "The Georgia Cyclone" and is now touring the state in the interest of the coming campaign. This gifted woman with her magnetic personality presenting convincing facts and figures from a financial standpoint, will be instrumental in winning many votes for California Dry.

In concluding this report Mrs. Smart gave an outline of the cantata, "Columbia's White Court," which caused such a stir in the convention city. This organization expects to have it staged in Glendale this fall. All will want to hear it.

Conversation and a social time was enjoyed while the hostess and her daughter served delicious refreshments. The White Ribbon salute was voted to all who helped on this pleasant occasion.

TRUSTEES CHANGE MEETING NIGHT

The city trustees of Glendale have by ordinance changed the night of their regular weekly meetings from Monday to Thursday. For many years the regular meetings of the trustees have been held on Monday evenings and for those who have made frequent visits to listen to the proceedings of this honorable body, it is well to become familiar with the change of time. The reason assigned for the change is that Monday seemed to be a busy day for several members of the board, thus causing them to be less able to care for the strenuous business connected with the evening's meeting.

SERVICE OF UNCLE SAM

CAPTAIN JOHNSON OF GLENDALE VOLUNTEER COMPANY SAYS WILL GET FULL NUMBER

"Up to this time," said Captain Johnson, of the Glendale volunteers, "we have had more than 70 men sign up for service if needed. These men are all of the best kind. Many of them have seen service and more have already received military training. This greatly simplifies matters for us. The trained men serve as squad leaders and their very presence is a kind of stiffening and brightening up of the whole labor of acquiring drill. Placed beside a man who already knows his drill the raw recruit learns twice as quickly as when in a company of wholly untrained men.

"I think there is the making of a very fine company of the best class of men in Glendale. Those whom we have recruited up to this point are in good physical condition and are willing to learn and that is half the battle. They are eager to learn and willing to place themselves under discipline. Of course in the training of American soldiers there is not that iron, ruthless crushing out of individuality that makes of the soldier nothing but a machine.

"It is men we want, not machines. In the end the man plus the machine will beat the machine man plus the machine. Soldiers with individuality and with discipline are the best soldiers in the world. I suppose that is why so many Americans are fighting as officers in the armies of Europe.

"My own training was in a good school. I enlisted in Company E, 20th Kansas, at the time of the war with Spain. The governor of Kansas, it will be remembered, did not call out the militia of Kansas but called for volunteers. That made a great sensation at the time. I and ten others of the militia enlisted in the volunteers and the indignation against us in the militia was so great that there was some talk of discharging us with dishonorable mention. The trouble, however, blew over and was lost sight of after the volunteers marched away to sail for Manila.

"Col. Frederick Funston was colonel of our regiment, in which I was a sergeant. Funston was quite a soldier and something of an adventurer like so many great soldiers. He had been a soldier of fortune in Cuba and after he came to Manila as colonel of the 20th Kansas he was a great favorite with the men. He had imagination which, added to a thorough knowledge of strategy and tactics, is a great help in warfare wnere the tricks are pretty well known and it requires original genius to devise something new.

"From the day of our arrival in Manila to the day we left we were constantly on the firing line. There was not an hour during which we were not under fire from the insurrectos. What time we spent off the firing line was spent in guard duty at the civil and military prisons. We did a great deal of hard work and fighting to secure the Philippines and it would be a pity to see that country fall into the hands of Japan, as it undoubtedly would do, if Uncle Sam should ever abandon the islands as has recently been proposed.

"I am more than pleased with the spirit displayed by the young men of Glendale and by the people of the city. I appreciate the courtesy of the city in aiding us by donating electric light free for drills in the hall donated free by Mr. Thom. I feel certain that we will have a company that will be a credit to both Glendale and Tropico and whatever other center may send its youth to us. They will get a good training and will by subjecting themselves to discipline make the very best kind of soldier. Training is what is needed and while the men are training it is up to Uncle Sam himself to see to the providing of ample ammunition. Think of days like these when, as we read, the British have been firing steadily for four days with immense parks of artillery of all kinds on a front of 100 miles and using up a million rounds of field artillery ammunition each day and still contemplate days of such work. Work of that kind measures the extent of unpreparedness in the United States at present."

NO EVENING PAPER TOMORROW

According to previous custom, no paper will be issued from the Evening News' office tomorrow, July 4. The Evening News recognizes six holidays in the course of the year. They are, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, New Years and Decoration Day.

WEATHER FORECAST—Fair tonight and Tuesday; westerly winds.

DESPERATE FIGHTING AROUND VERDUN

GERMANS CAPTURE VANLOUP IN FIERCE ASSAULT BUT ARE IMMEDIATELY DRIVEN OUT BY FRENCH

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, July 3.—Notwithstanding the progress of the combined British-and-French assault on the Flanders line the Germans pushed forward another desperate assault on Vanloup, northwest of Verdun. They came on in their usual wave formation and suffered serious losses, but their numbers overflowed the French trenches. They were not suffered to remain long in their captured position. The French immediately re-formed and drove them out of the entire line.

FRENCH ADVANCE CLOSER TO PERONNE

SERIES OF BRILLIANT ATTACKS BRINGS JOFFRE'S MEN FIVE MILES NEARER THEIR OBJECTIVE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PARIS, July 3.—By a series of three brilliant attacks the French drove the Germans out of the neighborhood of Fricourt and captured those of them who did not get away. This advanced their forces five miles nearer Peronne, one of the objectives of the Allies. Peronne is a strongly fortified post where the Germans have concentrated an immense quantity of stores of all kinds. Its capture by the French would open up an immense sector of important territory now in the hands of the Germans.

ALLIES CONSOLIDATING POSITIONS WON

BRITISH AND FRENCH ADVANCE THEIR ARTILLERY TO ATTACK GERMAN SECOND LINE OF DEFENSE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, July 3.—According to dispatches received from Rotterdam this morning the Allies' preparations for the attack on the German second line of defense are going on with feverish activity and yet with thorough preparation. The British and French mode of attack is marked by careful preparation. Parties of officers go well forward of each attack to prevent the soldiers from advancing too far. Notwithstanding the enormous quantity of shells fired by the British during five days at the rate of one million a day, the supply is continuous.

NO ANSWER TO AMERICAN NOTE AS YET

MEXICAN DE FACTO GOVERNMENT IS TAKING ITS TIME TO REPLY TO PRESIDENT WILSON

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

MEXICO CITY, July 3.—Communication with the foreign office here today revealed the fact that the Mexican government is taking ample time to prepare its answer to President Wilson's last note. The foreign office was unable to give any indication as to what time the reply would be ready. It was stated that it would probably not go forward for several days.

FRONTIER UNDER THREE DEPARTMENTS

WAR DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES THAT PERSHING, FUNSTON AND BELL WILL HAVE SEPARATE COMMANDS

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—The war department announced today that the border department had been divided into three departments under the command of Gens. Funston, Pershing and Bell. It has been felt that the extent of the line of border and the distances between the American troops there necessitated this separate supervision.

UNITED STATES CAN CALL 21,000,000 MEN

CENSUS FIGURES SHOW THAT NUMBER OF ABLE-BODIED ELIGIBLES BETWEEN AGES OF 18 AND 45

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—Examination of the census figures reveals the fact that the United States has at its call 21,000,000 ablebodied men between the ages of 18 and 45. Further State statistics show that the men in other returns have shown a willingness for military service.

CARRANZA SPIES WATCH U. S. MILITIA

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 3.—United States secret service men report that there is unusual activity among the spies employed by Carranza to watch developments in the United States. There is quite a considerable body of these men who are known to be following the movements of the United States militia with profound interest. The information they have obtained has been meager owing to the strictness of the censorship and the precautions taken by the United States secret service.

NEARING SEMI-FINALS

GLENDALE GOLFERS TAKING GREAT INTEREST IN TOURNAMENT AT GRIFFITH PARK

Amid much interest of both competitors and spectators the golf tournament at Griffith park arranged by the Glendale golfers reached the stage before the semi-finals, Saturday. The fine weather attracted a large crowd and the local golfers appeared to be in good condition. If any of them were off their play it was those who were unfortunate enough to lose their matches. There was nothing sensational in the matches. Bogey on the Griffith park links is 79 and par is 71. The players on Saturday ran from 82 to 85. That is good ordinary play and it is expected that the semi-finals and finals will show up even better.

Eight matches were played Saturday as follows: Allen Fairchild beat Humphrey; L. McMillan beat Mrs. Warner; J. Hearnshaw beat Dr. Bryant; Jesse Flower beat Albert Pearce; J. Fishel beat Dr. Ames; E. Patterson beat J. Fanset; Chandler defaulted to Balthis and Dr. Tholen beat G. D. Wood.

The fourth play-off will be played throughout this week at the convenience of the various players. Those who will take part in these matches are as follows: Allan Fairchild vs. McMillan; J. Hearnshaw vs. J. Flower; J. Fishel vs. E. Patterson; Frank Balthis vs. Dr. Tholen. By the time these matches have been played the semi-finals will have been reached and should elicit keen competition from the picked players.

Ball Sweepstakes

A ball sweepstakes will be held Saturday and Sunday, July 8-9. The entrance fee will be a 50-cent ball. The winner will take 50 per cent of the balls and the runnerup 35 per cent.

DEATH OF THOMAS ATKINSON

Thomas Atkinson departed this life Sunday, July 2, at his residence, 1221 Milford street. He had been failing for some time. Mr. Atkinson was aged 79. He was born in England and came to this country when a boy, with his parents, who settled in Markesan, Wis. He lived there until seven years ago, when he came to Glendale. Mr. Atkinson was a druggist by trade and enjoyed a position of much respect in Markesan. At the time of the civil war he joined one of the Wisconsin regiments and served three years till the close of the campaign. He was city clerk of Markesan for 24 years. Mr. Atkinson was also a lifelong Mason and it is likely that the local Masonic order will attend his funeral. The services will be held in the Jewel City Undertaking parlors, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will be conducted by the Rev. C. R. Norton and the Rev. E. H. Willisford. The remains will be cremated privately at the Los Angeles crematory. Mr. Atkinson leaves a wife and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Humphrey of Los Angeles, also a granddaughter, Edytha May Atkinson.

CARELESS USE OF FIREARMS

A telephone message came to the Evening News office this forenoon stating that there had been careless shooting in the vicinity of the Valley View road, North Glendale, Sunday. A bullet from a rifle in the hands of a careless individual passed into the home of a resident on Valley View road and inflicted a severe wound on the arm of an elderly lady who was resting on a couch. There seems to be evidences of other carelessness in shooting in that locality. As the parties interested do not live in Glendale the writer suggested that Constable Purrier of Burbank township be notified concerning this carelessness.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE

Amid a blaze of American flags the First Lutheran church, corner Isabel and Third, fitly celebrated the Fourth of July season, Sunday morning. P. E. Laichinger, who presided at the organ, played a beautiful medley of patriotic airs. Elizabeth Mottern sang "The Star Spangled Banner," and the congregation swelled the chorus with great effect. There was a large attendance and a sprinkling of veterans who enjoyed the service. A flag drill given by a number of little children, trained by Mrs. J. A. St. Clair, was a pleasing feature. Those taking part were: Esther Kline, Rebecca Kline, Dorsey Mottern, Wilhelmina Rieth, Lavina Thede and Patricia St. Clair. The pastor, the Rev. R. W. Mottern, preached a stirring discourse on the subject, "What Makes a Nation Safe," in which he advocated peace and preparedness.

THE PETERS' OIL STATION

George Peters, Jr., who several weeks ago was denied the right to establish an oil station on the northwest corner of Central avenue and Colorado street, has not given up hopes of getting permission from the board to install the station. The question was taken up by the board of trustees last Thursday evening and it seemed to be the opinion of members who had voted against granting the permit that it may not be within the power of the board to deny Mr. Peters the right to establish an oil station on his own property so the legality of installing oil stations in residence sections of the city providing there are objections offered by property owners in that locality was referred to City Attorney Evans, who will report on the legal phases of the question at the regular meeting of the board Thursday evening, July 6.

The question of establishing oil stations in residence portions of the city is one that has been giving all municipalities considerable concern. It was only a few years ago that the need of oil stations seemed to be apparent and their numbers have increased so that how to govern them is a question of equal importance to that of the jitney bus problem.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, JULY 3, 1916

THE SPIRIT OF THE FOURTH

In these days the Declaration of Independence, which has recently appeared in danger of being relegated to the mouldering piles of outworn documents, is being revived and it is likely that on Tuesday, the Fourth of July, 1916, its deep rolling chords will come again to awaken the conscience of the nation and assert anew the independence of humanity. The men who composed the Declaration were not men held back from doing their duty by any overscrupulousness of conscience. They did not wait to weigh and measure their thought and action, after they were persuaded they were right, but they plunged boldly into the current of individual action that soon separated them forever from the monarchies of the old world.

On this Fourth of July it is well to reflect how difficult it is to kill an old enemy or to down an old falsehood. The enemy takes heart of grace and rises up to declare that the very document that asserts the right of humanity to protect itself from tyranny is antiquated and out-of-date and too full of the spirit of the world. It will be well for those who celebrate the Fourth of July to read again the declaration of our fathers which protested against tyranny and oppression and which having signed they upheld with their blood, to remember that the price of the liberty that these men bought is eternal vigilance—vigilance against the coward and the small in soul, vigilance against the same species of traitor and betrayer who opposed the document and its upholders at the time of its origin and who are opposing it at the present day.

Verily the nation needs to be on its guard against the same species of individual who opposed Lincoln when he made his immortal stand against narrowness of soul and lack of vision and the spirit that was determined to put asunder those states which indubitably God himself had joined together. How easy it is to see these things at this distance and with the present perspective! How difficult for some people even now to see the strait road that leads to the life of the nation and how easy to behold and to desire to follow the soft and easy path of indolence and apathy that leads to destruction!

In the heart of every people, no matter how far they may have wandered from old ideals, dwells ever the sense of right and justice and the abhorrence of what is unjust and degrading. It is not difficult to arouse in men's hearts a spirit that has never been really dead and it is gratifying to witness the immediate and universal response to the call of the president for men to defend the interests of the United States in a foreign land and the resolve to stand by the principles that animated our forefathers in all their struggles toward national freedom and independence.

May it be the case that no Fourth of July will ever dawn without witnessing the outburst of real patriotism in American hearts, a patriotism that is not looking for the cheap applause of tinsel sentiment but the patriotism that is prepared in the spirit of sacrifice to do what is right. It is always right to uphold the truth even unto the death and no man of national caliber has ever been honored after death by this nation who has not, through poverty and through wealth, through good report and through ill report, in sickness and in health, in life and in death maintained unsullied the principles on which this nation was founded and which will preserve it alive unhurt amid the crash of worlds.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

It is still hoped that peaceable counsels will prevail and that the relations between the United States and Mexico will not be broken. War cannot result in anything but misery to the Mexicans and in the loss of many valuable American lives with destruction of property all along the border. To avert such a calamity as that would be a work worthy of all those who profess to love humanity. Mexico's troubles are serious enough without having the United States mixed up with them in the way of war. The expression of the governor of Coachuila, the other day at Eagle Pass, when he said that he hoped to see Mexico and the United States allies, is the genuine feeling of every true American and true Mexican.

At the same time there are elements at work that may drive the two countries into war. The ignorance of the peon combined with the unscrupulousness of the foreign capitalist may urge the Mexicans on to some overt act that may precipitate war. Under these circumstances there is every need for the United States to prepare itself for a struggle that might easily involve it with other nations.

It is well said in Scripture that the beginning of strife is like the letting out of water. One never knows to what the most insignificant difference between nations may lead. One never knows what bigger interests may be drawn into the vortex of war. What can be done in that way is easily seen in Europe, where so many nations have become involved and where the few neutrals have the greatest difficulty in maintaining their neutrality.

Under these circumstances it behooves the country to waken up to a sense of its responsibility. Peace prophets who assured the world that there would be no more wars; that the very ease with which men could kill each other would prevent the breaking out of hostilities, have lived to learn that one force can always be counted on with certainty among human forces—commercial greed and the desire for national aggrandizement. In the face of the worst war the world has ever seen the United States needs to set its house in order.

It is to meet these conditions that the whole country is now devoting itself to the raising of volunteer regiments, the training of the present generation in the use of modern arms and the getting together of a body of men sufficiently large to be a guaranty to the nation that it is able to defend itself if attacked. Nothing can equal the benefit the country is going to receive from the cultivation and fostering of this idea in the mind of the rising generation. To bring up a generation in the midst of the worst international fighting the world has seen; to have on our borders a richly mineralized country which foreign nations covet; to have our merchants and our financiers raking in foreign gold by the billion and then to sit down and thank God that we are not as other men are is the height of folly. The danger is that the lean and hungry fighting nations may some day see on this side of the Atlantic or Pacific a nation plethoric and lazy and may come over from one side or the other and seek to take back that wealth.

In face of a world crisis it is a good thing to see the American youth bestir itself and bethink itself and act. The old spirit may have been dormant but it is by no means dead and the true American genius will arise and vindicate itself when called upon to manifest itself unto the world.

IMPORTANCE OF LOCAL PAPER

From month to month the importance of a well edited local daily paper in the Glendale community demands a greater and greater claim upon the residents of this community.

It is in the daily paper that the significant news of the local community is published, and not in the city papers. The city dailies may be recognized as being strong factors in publishing the world's news, which is of interest to every intelligent citizen, but when it comes to recording the events in the Glendale community the local daily paper does that in logical and exhaustive manner.

The municipal doings, in which every taxpayer and voter should have an acute interest, are given exclusively in the local daily. The proceedings of the public schools are given unlimited publicity through the columns of the local daily paper as is also the doings of clubs and community associations.

The Glendale community receives very limited favorable publicity through the columns of the Los Angeles papers. Sensational mentions that do the community more harm than good are the publicity writeups given the Glendale community. The local daily is the true publicity representative of Glendale, and it is understood by people who are interested in the welfare of the Glendale community that the local paper is the only paper that stands loyal to the absolute needs of the community.

SEEDS FOR SING SING

Mrs. Ella Richardson, who is at present in the East, has taken a great deal of interest in the work at Sing Sing prison, New York. During her recent visit to the prison she learned that there is a Garden society there and has offered them a donation of 25 packets of California poppy seed, which she has asked Mrs. Nanno Woods, president of the Garden society, to forward to the prison. She also asks that members of the Glendale Garden society who have cuttings or plants to spare send them to Sing Sing, where they will be greatly appreciated. The matter will be brought formally before the Garden society at its next meeting.

A COTTAGE IN A CHINE

We reached the place by night,
And heard the waves breaking:
They came to meet us with candles alight
To show the path we were taking.
A myrtle, trained on the gate, was white
With tufted flowers down shaking.

With head beneath her wing,
A little wren was sleeping—
So near, I had found it an easy thing
To steal her for my keeping
From the myrtle bough that with easy swing
Across the path was sweeping.

Down rocky steps rough-hewed,
Where cup-mosses flowered,
And under the trees, all twisted and rude,
Wherewith the dell was dowered,
They led us, where deep in its solitude
Lay the cottage, leaf-embowered.

The thatch was all bespread
With climbing passion flowers;
They were wet, and glistened with raindrops, shed
That day in genial showers.
"Was never a sweeter nest," we said,
"Than this little nest of ours."
—Jean Ingelow.

BOOKS OF ACCOUNT

A financial statement, to be of any value, must be based on an inventory, and an inventory is of no value unless some books of account are kept and the merchant who does not keep books of account has little chance of keeping off the rocks. Possibly an unusually keen mind may win out without any system whatsoever, but such a mind is a distinct exception, and not to know whether one's business is making or losing argues almost certain failure.

It certainly is a point of good service for mercantile agencies to state in their reports whether or not books of account are kept, and the kinds of books except of course when the report applies to large concerns which could not proceed for a month without careful accountancy methods. Agency financial statement forms should comprise the questions, "Do you keep books of account?" and "What kinds of books?" The importance of the second is that misrepresentation in a statement may be quickly fixed on the maker when he indicates the kinds of books he keeps.

Remember a financial statement based on guess work is altogether useless for prosecution purposes under false statement acts or the penal sections of the national bankruptcy law, or section 215 of the federal penal law.—National Creditmen's Bulletin.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST WEEDS

The Kansas State Board of Health is urging every town and city in the State to prosecute a campaign against weeds. Dr. S. J. Crumbine, head of the board, has issued the following statement:

"Hay fever can be avoided if weeds are cut down. The disease is due to pollen from the weeds, getting inside the nose and causing an irritation. I urge that every town and city in the State pass an ordinance ordering all weeds cut, and then enforce it. If this is done, hay fever will be driven from the State of Kansas."

Many states have anti-weed laws, but the trouble is that they are not enforced as they should be. Those who live in cities should be equally interested in eradicating weeds. The suggestion has been made that weed eradicating week be made a national institution—a week during which everybody, everywhere would do his share in driving out the nuisances.

AMATEUR RADIO WORK

According to a statement of the secretary of the Radio Club, there are 2,000 licensed wireless stations owned and operated by amateurs in New York City and 240,000 in the United States. In addition to these there are forty companies than manufacture and sell exclusively supplies for these amateurs, most of whom are boys and young men.

MEN AND CEREMONIES

Men in respect to ceremonies, modes, and laws, like a flock of sheep, will, in a body, provided the bell-wether can only be got to leap over a pole, continue to leap carefully over the same place when the pole has been taken away; and the most and highest leaps in the state are those we make without the pole. —Richter.

A CALL TO COMMON MEN

It seems as if the heroes had done almost all for the world that they can do, and that not much more can come until common men awake and take their tasks.—Phillips Brooks.

The funeral services of Thomas Atkinson will be held at the Jewel City Undertaking parlors, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and all members of the Woman's Relief Crops who can possibly do so are asked to meet at the parlors at that hour to attend the services en masse. WICKER DESKS FOR THE PORCH

Writing letters in summertime provokes to more procrastination than almost any other occupation, as it generally means staying indoors at a desk in a corner or trying to write on one's lap out of doors. The pretty wicker desk that fits against the porch wall and holds the informal stationery of the cottage season brings a positive inclination to write letters rather than a reluctance to do so. One may sit in the shade of vines and write to one's heart's content, in solid comfort. The wicker may either be plain or painted in colors to match the other porch furniture. There are drawers for papers, blotters, and so on, pigeonholes for answered and unanswered letters, and side pockets for magazines and newspapers.

'Mid the roar
Of this rude, striving world, I hear your life
Pouring its music, even as one might hear

MEETING LOCAL CONDITIONS

An engineer was engaged to locate a proper outlet for a drainage ditch. He came to a road under which was built a new concrete culvert. To his amazement he beheld a culvert of new and strange design.

His ready rule came forth and he found the inlet end to measure 4 ft. in diameter and the outlet end but 2 ft.! When he drove to town that afternoon he "hunted up" the county surveyor and asked him the reason for the unusual culvert.

The surveyor was an old fellow and replied, rather patronizingly: "My boy, that culvert is an engineering work designed to meet local conditions and not plain theory. You see that road is on the township line and the supervisors on the west side insisted on 4 ft. as about the right size for their end, while the supervisor on the east claimed 2 ft. was enough."—H. J. F., Chicago.

LICENSE

The yellow dog is licensed
He wears a metal tag;
The bar-keep buys a license
To sell a man a jag.
The peddler needs a license
To peddle out his wares,
And the hackman has a license
To haul around his fares.
The motor car is licensed
By State and City, too;
The barber gets a license
And hangs it up to view.
The architect is licensed
And stamps it on his plans,
And my poetic license
Is as good as any man's.
Most everybody's licensed,
And the time is drawing near
When a fifty dollar license
Will make an engineer.

GOOD ROADS AND SCHOOL HOUSES

This is the way a Texas editor sees the relation of the good road to the school:

"All good roads lead to a school house. In good roads there is a consideration of the school child. Compel a helpless child to force its way along a mud-fouled thoroughfare and a crime is committed. Its health is endangered and its mind is dwarfed. He who would not strive to overcome a calamity is not civilized though garbed in the broadcloth of an honored citizen. A community should, above all, consider the school children's welfare. The destiny of a Nation rests in this careful study and the thoroughfare along which their little feet must travel can not be constructed with too much precision to gain the happy result. Texas can never become great until she becomes civilized."

SUMMER

What was Summer chanting?
O ye brooks and birds,
Flash and pipe in happiness. . . .
Here's a maze of butterflies
Dancing over golden gorse,
Here's a host of summer spies
Sunshine has set free, of course!
Wonder at the wind that blows
Odors from the forest sweet;
Marvel at the honeyed rose
Heaping petals at her feet;
Hark at wood-nympths rustling through
Brakes and thickets, tender knee'd!
Hark! some shepherd pipe there blew!
Was it Pan upon a reed?
Oh, the pinks and garden-spice,
Nature's every fair device,
Mingled in a scented hoard
Expected, longed for and adored—
Summer's come!

—Norman Gale.

REMARKABLE AIR VOYAGE

One of the most remarkable aerial flights is reported from Baltimore. Captain Thomas MacAuley succeeded in piloting safely a fifteen-ton hydro-aeroplane in a journey from Newport News to Baltimore. The machine carried five persons.

It started at eight minutes of eight o'clock in the morning, and the machine landed in the Papapsco River, below Fort McHenry, at five minutes of eleven o'clock. It had covered 178 miles without a stop.

After replenishing the gasoline Captain MacAuley started back, making the return trip in about the same time. The craft was called upon to pass through what Captain MacAuley called "a young cyclone" of treacherous air currents, but went through unharmed.

"At times we were brought almost to a standstill," said Captain MacAuley. "For fifteen minutes we had this wind to contend with, and our progress was as slow as a snail. Suddenly we struck a free lane and shot forward at a one-hundred-mile-an-hour rate of speed."

At the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, held in Saratoga, New York, during the month of May, the name of the Temperance society of that church was changed to "Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals," and its headquarters were located at Washington, D. C. By the law of the church the Board of Bishops nominates and the General Conference elects the Board of Managers, and among those elected unanimously to the Advisory Board is Congressman Charles H. Randall, the first Prohibitionist ever elected to the House of Representatives.

Federal Inquiry or Railroad Strike?

Faced by demands from the conductors, engineers, firemen and brakemen that would impose on the country an additional burden in transportation costs of $100,000,000 a year, the railroads propose that this wage problem be settled by reference to an impartial Federal tribunal.

With these employes, whose efficient service is acknowledged, the railroads have no differences that could not be considered fairly and decided justly by such a public body.

Railroads Urge Public Inquiry and Arbitration

The formal proposal of the railroads to the employes for the settlement of the controversy is as follows:

"Our conferences have demonstrated that we cannot harmonize our differences of opinion and that eventually the matters in controversy must be passed upon by other and disinterested agencies. Therefore, we propose that your proposals and the proposition of the railways be disposed of by one or the other of the following methods:

1. Preferably by submission to the Interstate Commerce Commission, the only tribunal which, by reason of its accumulated information bearing on railway conditions and its control of the revenue of the railways, is in a position to consider and protect the rights and equities of all the interests affected, and to provide additional revenue necessary to meet the added cost of operation in case your proposals are found by the Commission to be just and reasonable; or, in the event the Interstate Commerce Commission cannot, under existing laws, act in the premises, that we jointly request Congress to take such action as may be necessary to enable the Commission to consider and promptly dispose of the questions involved; or

2. By arbitration in accordance with the provisions of the Federal law" (The Newlands Act).

Leaders Refuse Offer and Take Strike Vote

Leaders of the train service brotherhoods, at the joint conference held in New York, June 1-15, refused the offer of the railroads to submit the issue to arbitration or Federal review, and the employes are now voting on the question whether authority shall be given these leaders to declare a nation-wide strike.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is proposed by the railroads as the public body to which this issue ought to be referred for these reasons:

No other body with such an intimate knowledge of railroad conditions has such an unquestioned position in the public confidence.

The rates the railroads may charge the public for transportation are now largely fixed by this Government board.

Out of every dollar received by the railroads from the public nearly one-half is paid directly to the employes as wages; and the money to pay increased wages can come from no other source than the rates paid by the public.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, with its control over rates, is in a position to make a complete investigation and render such decision as would protect the interests of the railroad employes, the owners of the railroads, and the public.

A Question For the Public to Decide

The railroads feel that they have no right to grant a wage preferment of $100,000,000 a year to these employes, now highly paid and constituting only one-fifth of all the employes, without a clear mandate from a public tribunal that shall determine the merits of the case after a review of all the facts.

The single issue before the country is whether this controversy is to be settled by an impartial Government inquiry or by industrial warfare.

EAT DRIED FRUITS

Dried figs, apples, raisins, apricots, prunes and dates are wholesome foods which build tissue and yield energy. The chief nutritive element in dried fruits generally is sugar, which is the most easily digested and assimilated of all the carbohydrates. Since sugar is one of the most important factors in producing muscular energy for the body, the high nutritive value of dried fruits must be well appreciated. Raisins, prunes and apples are particularly high in sugar and these form an ideal portion of the diet.

The salts and organic acids found in dried fruits also have hygienic and medicinal value and the mineral ingredients are most important. Professor Jaffa, consulting nutrition expert of the California State Board of Health, says that it matter not whether it was instinct or knowledge that led man to combine nuts and fruit—the result is a happy one.

INEXPENSIVE COSTUMES

It's getting to be quite the thing to have masquerades in the summertime out of doors, and they're fun for boys and girls who give or take part in them, says the Detroit Free Press.

Where is the boy or girl who doesn't love to "dress up," especially if the jollification is not to be held indoors but ouf under the trees in the moonlight or the sunshine as the occasion is?

"But costumes cost money," we hear some little folks say.

They needn't. You can make them up in no time if the piece bag and the rag-bag are at your disposal. A few generous pieces of old cotton sheeting make fine foundations, and with paste, glue, safety pins, scissors and sheets of paper, gold, silver and colored crepe, you can get up a wonderful costume in very short order. Try and you'll see.

THE INVISIBLE APRON

A young matron who does her own work, but who likes to appear in a pretty frock in the afternoon, has an ingenious plan for wearing an apron which is quite invisible, in case anyone calls on her after she has started to prepare the evening meal. Instead of donning a big gingham apron, she has bought enough extra material of the kind her dress is made of to make a simple apron. If she is "caught" while getting supper, nobody is the wiser, for the apron looks like a paneled front to the dress, and is not noticeable, except to the practiced feminine eye, which would doubtless appreciate the novelty of the plan and send its owner home to do likewise.
